

Hosting A Stress-Free Brunch Is Simple With These Tips

Planning a brunch can be fun, but it can also be stressful. Luckily, we have some tips to lessen the stress and make your brunch party low maintenance. These tips are helpful for brunches of any size, from a personal event like a baby shower to a corporate event.

Plan beforehand:

For all events, planning ahead is key; this advice holds true for brunches, too! Hosting a brunch is more casual than hosting a dinner or another meal, but that doesn't mean that you don't need to plan things out. Set a budget for the food, location and decorating.

Estimate how many guests will be attending and factor that into each step of the process. If you're unsure about how much food to provide per person, our brunch caterers are happy to help!

Provide options:

Brunch is a great meal to serve when you want to offer your guests lots of options. Some people prefer a light breakfast, while others like something heartier. One guest may love starting off with an omelet, while another would rather have a waffle. Give everyone a chance to choose what they like best!

Hire a professional brunch caterer:
