

How To Build Farm House Stairs: Ideas and Inspiration

If you've ever dreamed of a farmhouse, you know that the old-world charm and grandeur of the architecture is only enhanced by the beauty of its staircases.

The farmhouse stair is a classic, but it doesn't have to be boring. With the right design, you can make your staircase as unique and eye-catching as the rest of your home.

If you're lucky enough to have a home with a set of stairs that are in need of an update, consider using them as an opportunity to add some farmhouse style to your space.

If you're looking for some inspiration when it comes to farmhouse stairs, here are some ideas!

Go with wood and iron:

The first thing you need to do is decide what kind of wood and iron you want. White Oak and Red Oak are both popular choices for farmhouse stair projects. White Oak has a more modern rustic look while Red Oak tends to be more traditional. Modern iron balusters are a great choice to compliment your wood stair railing as well as Modern retro tread kits.

Get creative with color:

If you're going for a rustic look, try using natural colors like greys and tans. If you've got a dark living room and want to lighten it up a bit, consider painting your farmhouse stairs white or a light color. You could also paint just the risers of your modern retro tread kit—that would look awesome too!

Create a workspace or storage area under your staircase:

For example, if you want an office space but don't have enough room in your house for one, consider creating one under your landing. It will look like part of the original design of your home rather than an afterthought.
