THERMAL IMAGING TECHNOLOGY

When we carry out a termite inspection Adelaide, you'll see us using thermal imaging technology. This is just one example of how the industry's developed over time, enabling us to scope-out movement in places that are usually impossible to reach. In a nutshell, thermal imaging gives us access to the interior makeup of walls and concealed spaces without causing damage. The technology picks up heat and moisture that permeates through the walls. When the reading is unusually high, it's a sign that termites or other insects might be inhabiting the space. Because the technology is so responsive, it can also pick up other sources of heat like pets, pipes and appliances. To avoid interference with our reading, it's advised that you turn off any nearby devices and keep pets at a distance. This technology is used widely due to it's reliability, so call us for your thermal imaging termite inspection Adelaide to get your reading!

Whether you're buying, selling, or simply have a hunch that something isn't right, it's worth seeking professional help to scope out the damage! Call us for your termite inspection Adelaide on 0402 682 738 for peace of mind today.
